“ My heart is broken but, my spirit rejoices that you are finally home in the presence of your savior. So many countless times through the course of my 51 years with you as my grandmother, I would here you say how much you looked forward to being with your Lord. You were the first one that told me about Jesus. You dedicated your entire life to your family. You were the most selfless person that I have known. We have had lots of heartaches together but, we have had some really fun goofy laughs together. I remember all the stories you would tell me sitting at my bedside, scratching my back as I fell asleep as a child. You were a mother to me and friend. Nothing in this lifetime will ever compare to you. I know you are spending time with momma and all those you loved so dear that has gone on to heaven. I know you are getting the pots out and cooking momma some chicken and dumplings in your mansion. I'm not able to be there to tell you goodbye because, you know I'm in Fort Lauderdale serving the Lord in a ministry. You would want it no other way. I am sharing the Gospel and growing in the Lord day by day. I understand now the love that you felt from your heavenly father. I love you grandma!
