“ This woman (my aunt: my Dads sister) saved me from an ass whoopin' a many a time growing up. My parents whole heartedly believed in corporal punishment My mom personally thought that passage in the Bible "spare the rod and not the child" was put in there specifically for her. While my dad was serving in Vietnam, my mom and my brother and I stayed here in Mobile. We spent a lot of time at my MawMaws (Dads mom) house and Sally and her family lived right next-door. There was a huge pomegranate tree in her neighbors yard directly behind her house. John and I loved to climb the fence to get to that man's pomegranate tree. And more times than not I got my ass whipped for little things like trespassing and stealing that my mom thought were character traits that needed to be instilled in me through my legs with a switch or a piece of race track ...whatever she got her hands on first. I can remember Sally defended me quite a few times ...even told my mom once that the pomegranate fell on this side of the fence when she caught Regina, John, Doug & me with red faces & hands. You just cant sneak & eat a pomegranate. She saved me that day. I was six years old. The memories you never forget. I am so sorry for the loss of this wonderful woman. She will be missed by so many.
