“ As Billy's sister, I have many memories. I know that he was an a accomplished guitarist and never had a lesson. He also played the mandolin and started making chords on his mandolin by himself at age 5 amazing my mother. He even played the steel guitar on occasions. All he needed to do was be around an instrument for a while and he could play it. He also could drive just about anything. He just needed to "study" it for a while. He could park an 18 wheeler within an inch of something and never hit it. He showed me how to parallel park and how to get my car out of a parking lot with just a couple inches between my back and front bumpers from other vehicles. He had certain talents that few have. I will miss him greatly but know that I did what I could for him in his last years on earth. Love you, Bill. Your sister, Bobbie
